Dies Committee Finds Aliens Have Received Tips On Future

WASHINGTON, May 28—Inter-est today was centered on Dies reports which said that subversive Japanese in the war relocation center at Rivers, Ariz., claim they have secretly received information that "something terrible is going to happen on the West coast by October 1."

The reports, sent to Washington by field investigators, said that the pro-Japan evacuees are determined to stay in confinement to escape consequences of the events which they say will happen between June and October.

Investigators said that statements taken at the center indicate that the pro-Japan element expects air raids or an actual invasion attempt and does not want to leave the camp for fear of reprisals in this country.

Invasion Planned

Along with disclosure of the Dies reports, Kilsoo K. Haan, Washington representative of the Sino-Korean People's Leagues said that Korean agents in Japan had received information that Nippon planned an invasion of America this year.

Haan said that, according to the alleged reports from Japan, Premier Hideki Tojo had outlined details of the invasion plan at a party he gave last February for his closest advisers.

"I have made a double check on the authenticity of the information, and men we have never had cause to doubt assure me that the report was factual and has been unchanged by any later developments," Haan said.

"That includes the report that Rear Admiral Katsurou Miyazaki has been assigned to train and command 60 percent of the Japanese."

ITALIAN HOLDS TOP POST OVER GEN. VON ARNIM

LONDON, May 28 — Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim, the Prussian junker defeated by American and British forces in Tunisia, has been relegated to second place at the showy English country mansion where he and other high-ranking Axis prisoners are interned.

Perhaps ironically, his "superior" is Field Marshal Giovanni Messe, the Italian general who was given a baton by Premier Mussolini almost simultaneously with collapse of the Axis armies in North Africa.

Information gained from sources able to tell the full story made it quite clear that Messe, because of his rank, is the "star boarder."

Red Tape To Be Slashed To Speed Rehabilitation In Midwest

WASHINGTON, May 28—Federal agencies today promised congressional delegations from flood-stricken Midwestern states that "red tape" will be slashed to rush rehabilitation aid.

The first big effort planned was to remove debris, and provide machinery, feed and labor in order to replant destroyed crops.

Food Administrator Chester C. Davis, aroused over possibility of the food supply being sharply decreased as a result of the flood, has sent agents into the field. Reports are expected within a few days.

Ravages of the flood were described to the Illinois congressional delegation by state officials while Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma conferred with Oklahoma representatives today.

The Illinois representatives brought with them a proposal for draft deferment of farm boys in the flooded state areas for at least 90 days and furlough of army mechanics to help repair tractors and other machinery.

The Illinois delegation, informed that the War Production Board is moving to relax priorities on machinery and other articles needed by farmers, adopted a resolution.

QUART LIMIT TO BE SET AS LIQUOR RATION

COLUMBUS, May 28 — State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher today announced that the first unit of purchase under the state liquor rationing plan would be either a quart or fifth per person. At the same time Fisher announced that this was a temporary allotment and only applied to the first ration period which was set up from June 1 to June 26 inclusive.

In event of the purchase of pints, two might be obtained but only one purchase may be made per period, Fisher said.

Liquor rationing in Ohio also will include all items carried by the state retail stores, he said, including all Scotch, bourbons, blends, rye, Canadian whiskeys, cordials and brandies at least during the first period of rationing.

President And Churchill In Final Agreement On War Conduct

JAPS TO FEEL BLOWS

Preparations Under Way To Increase Action Against Enemies

WASHINGTON, May 28—With the combined American and British staffs in agreement on the future conduct of the war, preparations were underway today to intensify offensive action against the Axis on both the European and Pacific fronts.

The White House announcement of the successful conclusion of the strategy talks between President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and their military staffs strengthened the belief that the war will soon be stepped up against Japan as well as Germany and Italy.

Complete Agreement

That any difference of opinion which might have existed between the American and British military advisers on the future strategy of the war has been ironed out was seen indicated in the nature of the White House announcement, which said:

"The conference of the combined staffs in Washington has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all theatres of the war."

The terse statement was regarded both in Washington and London as indicative of completion of elaborate plans not only for the launching of a second front in Europe, but for the speeding up of operations against Japan.

Some quarters predicted that one of the first results of the conferences probably would be appointment of a supreme commander of Allied forces on the European front.

Leading candidates mentioned for the post of supreme commander are Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of Allied operations in North Africa, and Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, his deputy commander-in-chief.

Termination of the Allied conferences 16 days after Churchill and his advisers arrived at the White House, came as the United Nations were blasting Europe and driving on the Aleutian islands on the northern route to Japan.

That the devastating bombing attacks on the European end of the Axis would be stepped up was indicated by high officials both in Washington and London.

EDEN SUGGESTS BUM'S RUSH BE GIVEN IL DUCE

LONDON, May 28—A new suggestion that the Italian people choose peace rather than destruction from the air was voiced by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in a speech at Portsmouth today.

"Italy is wide open to air attack," he said.

"This will be pressed home with all means in our power"

"It is for the Italian people to decide whether they are to endure bombardment to the bitter end and when it is to stop."

Eden recalled the day during the early stages of the war when Premier Mussolini asked Adolf Hitler for the "privilege" of sharing in the bombardment of London.

"We have not forgotten that," he said.

Great Britain, the foreign secretary continued, is not prepared to lend an "attentive ear" to suggestions that the weapon of aerial bombardment be yielded up.

"We didn't start this business," he said. "Goering gloated over the destruction of Warsaw and Rotterdam . . . now the biter has been bitten, and the process will continue until utter defeat of the Nazi-Fascist regimes."

WASHINGTON, May 28 — Preliminary arrangements for putting into effect on July 1 the 20 percent withholding tax provided under the new pay-as-you-go bill were completed today after senate-house conferees put finishing touches on the measure.

Treasury officials said that actual machinery for deducting the payroll tax will not be set up until the bill is finally passed and becomes law, or until it is known definitely whether President Roosevelt will veto it.

The measure will be sent to the house floor for action Tuesday and passage in both chambers is expected next week to permit starting of the new withholding collection system for salary and wage earners.

Democratic leaders are expected to urge Mr. Roosevelt to approve the bill or at least make it plain to him that a veto would probably make it impossible to enact any kind of tax legislation this year.

$1,000 WAR PLANT PAYS PRESIDENT $47,000 SALARY

PHILADELPHIA May 28 — Federal court officials today were still awed by testimony given before a referee in bankruptcy that a war-born plant which started on less than $1,000 capital, paid its president $47,000 a year.

Rawls said the parent firm was started about two years ago by a "group of patriotic persons wishing to help the war effort" and on promises of the U. S. maritime commission that it would give the company contracts for ship engines. Other officers in the firm, Rawls said, received annual salaries ranging from $18,000 to $25,000.

Hearings were continued until June 4.

ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER, May 28—The Warsaw Ghetto today was ablaze with furious street fighting as a revolt which began two weeks ago roared to its most furious pitch, dispatches from underground sources in Poland revealed. Ghetto youths, armed with weapons smuggled to them by the underground "fur trade" during the last two winters, are battling German troops in the very streets of the Jewish quarters, these sources said. Leading them are 200 Jewish patriots whom the Nazis have branded as "conspirators."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 28—Moving to speed up and streamline the war effort, President Roosevelt today established a super-war board with James F. Byrnes as its chief and gave him sweeping authority over all government agencies. The new agency will be known as the Office of War Mobilization and under it Mr. Roosevelt gave Byrnes powers second only to the chief executive himself.

Byrnes resigned as economic stabilization director and was succeeded in that office by Judge Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, previously a Democratic leader in congress.

By International News Service

The bomb, fire and flood-ravaged German Ruhr industrial valley early today again felt the weight of Allied wrath as hundreds of British bombers lashed out at Nazi war industries, centering their assault on Essen, most-bombed city in the world.

The huge Krupp plant in Essen was believed the chief target as gigantic Lancasters, Stirlings and Halifaxes hurled down heavy-weight bombs while other British planes in wide sweeps laid mines in enemy waters.

Essen, which has been assaulted from the air 56 times with an aggregate of more than 10,000 tons of bombs, was last attacked April 30. A British Air Ministry report that 23 bombers were lost indicated that upwards of 500 warplanes participated.

The night assaults followed raids by Mosquito light bombers which attacked the famed Carl Zeiss optical instrument works and Schott optical glass plant at Jena, in Germany's Thuringia province, despite furious fire from anti-aircraft guns and a network of protective barrage balloons.

Northern France Hit

Meanwhile, more allied warplanes roared eastward from Britain toward northern France before dawn.

Switching from heavy bombs to a hailstorm of lighter explosives, Maj.-Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's B-26 Marauders and P-40 Warhawks swooped over the Decimomannu airbase in Sardinia and raked the field with 4,000 fragmentation packets in a new, devastating attack.

Many axis planes, trapped on the ground at the Sardinian air base, were destroyed or badly damaged where they stood. Thirteen additional enemy aircraft out of a formation of more than 30 German and Italian warplanes which attacked the raiders were shot down during a 25-mile running dogfight. Only one Lightning was downed and the pilot later was rescued.

The Axis air formation pulled its customary trick of launching its attack on the American planes by plummeting out of a blinding sun and for 18 minutes the wheel-

$1,000 WAR PLANT PAYS PRESIDENT $47,000 SALARY

PHILADELPHIA May 28 — Federal court officials today were still awed by testimony given before a referee in bankruptcy that a war-born plant which started on less than $1,000 capital, paid its president $47,000 a year.

Huston Rawls, who described himself as an "upper New Jersey farmer," admitted that his salary before Referee John M. Hill at a hearing to determine the assets and liabilities of the Harrisburg Machine Foundry Co., Harrisburg, and the Springfield Machine & Foundry Co., Springfield, Mass.

Rawls said the parent firm was started about two years ago by a "group of patriotic persons wishing to help the war effort" and on promises of the U. S. maritime commission that it would give the company contracts for ship engines. Other officers in the firm, Rawls said, received annual salaries ranging from $18,000 to $25,000.

BULLETIN ON THE GERMAN FRONT

TIER, May 28—The Warsaw Ghetto today was ablaze with furious street fighting as a revolt which began two weeks ago roared to its most furious pitch, dispatches from underground sources in Poland revealed. Ghetto youths, armed with weapons smuggled to them by the underground "fur trade" during the last two winters, are battling German troops in the very streets of the Jewish quarters, these sources said. Leading them are 200 Jewish patriots whom the Nazis have branded as "conspirators."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 28—Moving to speed up and streamline the war effort, President Roosevelt today established a super-war board with James F. Byrnes as its chief and gave him sweeping authority over all government agencies. The new agency will be known as the Office of War Mobilization and under it Mr. Roosevelt gave Byrnes powers second only to the chief executive himself.

Byrnes resigned as economic stabilization director and was succeeded in that office by Judge Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, previously a Democratic leader in congress.

By International News Service

The bomb, fire and flood-ravaged German Ruhr industrial valley early today again felt the weight of Allied wrath as hundreds of British bombers lashed out at Nazi war industries, centering their assault on Essen, most-bombed city in the world.

The huge Krupp plant in Essen was believed the chief target as gigantic Lancasters, Stirlings and Halifaxes hurled down heavy-weight bombs while other British planes in wide sweeps laid mines in enemy waters.

Essen, which has been assaulted from the air 56 times with an aggregate of more than 10,000 tons of bombs, was last attacked April 30. A British Air Ministry report that 23 bombers were lost indicated that upwards of 500 warplanes participated.

The night assaults followed raids by Mosquito light bombers which attacked the famed Carl Zeiss optical instrument works and Schott optical glass plant at Jena, in Germany's Thuringia province, despite furious fire from anti-aircraft guns and a network of protective barrage balloons.

Northern France Hit

Meanwhile, more allied warplanes roared eastward from Britain toward northern France before dawn.

Switching from heavy bombs to a hailstorm of lighter explosives, Maj.-Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's B-26 Marauders and P-40 Warhawks swooped over the Decimomannu airdrome in Sardinia and raked the field with 4,000 fragmentation packets in a new, devastating attack.

Many axis planes, trapped on the ground at the Sardinian air base, were destroyed or badly damaged where they stood. Thirteen additional enemy aircraft out of a formation of more than 30 German and Italian warplanes which attacked the raiders were shot down during a 25-mile running dogfight. Only one Lightning was downed and the pilot later was rescued.

Battle In Sun

The Axis air formation pulled its customary trick of launching its attack on the American planes by plummeting out of a blinding sun and for 15 minutes the wheeling formations locked in deadly combat over the Mediterranean.

The fight was described later by Maj. Everett B. Howe of Waldron, Mich., who blasted one Italian plane into the sea.

"They jumped us," he said, "just as we left for the home stretch. They stayed so perfectly in the sun that I had a hell of a time seeing them."

Two-thirds of the enemy interceptors, he added, came swooping down against P-40 fighters, which promptly shot six out of the sky. Meanwhile the Marauder bombers, busy battling the remainder of the Axis planes, shot down seven.

Powerful formations of B-25 Mitchells at the same moment were hitting the nearby airfield at Villacidro, Sardinian base from which many Axis planes have been operating. Three large columns of smoke were left floating upward over the target area and photographs later showed many enemy aircraft in ruins on the ground.

Freighter Strafed

Escorting formations of twin-tailed Lightning fighters strafed a 50-foot freighter in the gulf of Palmas. Other P-38 squadrons joined with Warhawks in once again striking at the harbor defenses and artillery installations on bomb-scarred Pantelleria, causing a heavy explosion in one group of buildings at the harbor's edge.

These attacks were followed in the evening hours by new raids by both Lightnings and Warhawks on the South coast of the island basin.

Although the aerial assaults showed a slight decline in fury for the first time since the current offensive was launched, they were in sufficient force to keep the important enemy targets under fire and to prevent the Axis from recovering from the earlier blows.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio and a Finnish station said the Red army was pressing what was termed a major offensive northeast of Novorossisk, in the Kuban area at the southern end of the Russian front. Here the Germans are striving desperately to maintain a weakening foothold in the Caucasus.

An earlier Berlin broadcast said a furious assault by 150,000 Soviet troops pushed the Germans out of an area several miles wide and a mile and a half deep, but added that the lost ground later was regained.

In the Pacific war, Allied heavy and medium bombers plastered the important Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea, with 28 tons of bombs. Flying through a blazing barrage of anti-aircraft fire, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen showered the airfield, dispersal areas, supply dumps and the port area with high explosives and incendiaries, touching off huge explosions and setting fires which could be seen 75 miles away.

measure will increase the government's revenue during the next fiscal year by more than $3,000,000 after Secretary Morgenthau said that the goal of $16,000,000 additional revenue dollars for the year is needed "very, very badly."

In a closed session, the conferees agreed to accept the original house clause for abating in full the income taxes of any member of the armed forces who died in service during the war and clarified the forgiveness features.

1. Taxpayers whose tax for 1942 or 1943, whichever is lower, is $66.67 or less will be forgiven exactly $50.

2. Taxpayers whose tax for 1942 or 1943, whichever is lower, is more than $66.67, will be forgiven 75 percent of the tax.

The year 1937 was also added to the other three base years, 1938, 1939, 1940, used for computing windfall taxes.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the Internal Revenue Bureau is ready to print and send out about 150,000,000 exemption certificates to between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 employers in preparation for the withholding tax as soon as it is known definitely whether the compromise tax bill will become law.

The certificates will be distributed in duplicate to about 60,000,000 workers, who will fill in their family status and turn the original copy back for use by their employers as a guide in deducting the withholding tax.

The Illinois state representatives said the great need in rural flooded areas is farm equipment, cash loans, release of farmer-soldiers, postponement of draft of farm boys for 90 days, and rebuilding of levees.

Members of the class promoted to the high school included Marilyn Barthelmas, Jean Campbell, Mary Cross, Leland Dowden, Elsie Farmer, Willard Smith, Elisabeth Stevenson and Katherine Todd. All are expected to attend Circleville high school next fall.

the small minority—those persons who thus have neglected or avoided their duties—not only must be informed of their responsibilities in this war, but at the same time advised of the attitude and thinking of competent and reasonable public opinion, which to put it simply is: You, with the rest of us, must assume now your full responsibility.

"Those who fail to heed this information and advice can not expect much longer a reasonable consideration of their conduct and inaction, from that important court of public opinion. Everyone must attempt to accomplish his full share of the task. No individual will be permitted to lag or drag his feet."

In discussing and praising accomplishments of the local draft board the colonel declared that each member of the unit had been "drafted into service." "They were chosen," he said, "because they are competent, reasonable citizens. They are patriotically contributing their time and service to the state and federal government."

"The draft board is a very necessary part of the community's war effort. The members of this board have won the confidence and respect of neighbors because they had the courage to assume a distasteful job of selecting men for the armed forces in time of war. You have done the job honestly. You have done the job fairly. It is my conviction that your country owes you a debt of gratitude."

All members of the draft board and affiliated units were honor guests at the meeting. Colonel Goble was introduced by Durward Dowden, chairman of the board.

Among the honor guests of the day was Colonel Harry Jackson, Pickaway county's highest ranking officer.

He said his buddies told him afterward that, holding his automatic tightly, he then jumped up and ran wildly about the battle field.

"The Jap machine guns opened up," he continued. "In time, I fell, not from the machine guns, but from the original bullet in my head. Three Japs came to make sure I was dead this time, but a corporal lying in the grass killed all three. He saved my life."

After an emergency operation, Lieut. Marti was taken to New Zealand and when sufficiently recovered was returned to the United States.

"The doctors still want to do a little work on my head," he said. "Noise bothers me. I hear cars coming, but it takes some time for me to determine where they are coming from."

That was the "disturbing" feature of Chicago traffic.

POPPY DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY SATURDAY

VFW And Legion Auxiliary Members To Conduct Annual Sale

MADE BY WAR VICTIMS

Leaders Ask Support Of General Public In Patriotic Effort

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Circleville with members of Howard Hall post, American Legion, auxiliary and members of Henry Page Folsom post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, auxiliary appearing on the streets during the day. The Legion's event is known as Poppy Day, while the VFW's name is Buddy Poppy Day.

The poppies are bought from disabled veterans of the first world war who make them in hospitals. Profit from the sales goes to worthy undertakings.

Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Pickaway township, is chairman of the Legion auxiliary's program while Mrs. Anna Bennett, 123 North Scioto street, directs the VFW project. The VFW sale is the twenty-second for the organization.

In announcing the sale, Mrs. Bennett made the following statement:

"Every one should wear a Buddy Poppy. Honor the dead by helping the living. Every orphan deserves a chance for happiness equal to that enjoyed by the average American child. This opportunity is given the orphans of veterans by the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

"Proceeds from the annual Buddy Poppy sale make possible the maintenance of this orphanage. Buddy Poppies also offer a source of employment and relief for needy and disabled veterans in their home communities."

"For these two reasons we all should wear Buddy Poppies. Americans who value their liberties must correspondingly appreciate the services of those who have made possible the preservation of those liberties and the protection of our nation."

Should Wear Poppy

"The practice of wearing a Buddy Poppy on Memorial Day each year symbolizes not alone our wish to commemorate the sacrifices of those who gave their lives for our country, but also our wish to help those veterans and their families who may be in need of financial assistance today. Despite the increased demands being made on us at this time, we should make an extra effort to support the poppy sale."

Mrs. Bennett said the project is even more important this year since funds obtained will be used to aid families of veterans of World War II in addition to World War I. "The care of afflicted soldiers is a cause that has never lacked our support," the drive chairman said. "The Buddy Poppies made by men who have served the nation in its overseas service should be purchased by every citizen with a sense of gratitude for the defense of freedom and goodness on the earth and the American way of life."

Mayor's Proclamation

A proclamation issued by Mayor Ben H. Gordon on the Legion auxiliary's Poppy day follows:

"Whereas, the wearing of the memorial poppy is a fitting and effective way of keeping bright the memory of those young men who gave their lives in American service in the World War and now those of this present conflict, and

"Whereas, the names of new heroes have been added recently to those who gave the supreme sacrifice in the previous war, and

"Whereas, today's crisis requires the same type of unselfish patriotism displayed by these men and symbolized by their memorial flower, and

"Whereas, the women of the auxiliaries of veterans organizations will distribute veteran-made memorial poppies throughout the city on Saturday, May 29,

"Now, therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon,

Plan To Redistrict State Strikes Snag In House; Doom Apparent

An Ohio senate move to revamp the state's congressional districts in 1950, virtually eliminating the 11th Ohio district as a political power, has apparently been doomed in the house of representatives after passing the senate. The measure went through the senate without much opposition, but has struck a snag in the house reference committee.

Opposition to the measure from Republican and Democratic members of the Ohio delegation in congress is credited in a large way for blocking the bill, presented by Senator Carl D. Sheppard, Akron Republican.

Senator Sheppard conceded defeat, but said that if he is reelected to the senate he will present legislation which will call for redistricting.

The Akron solon's action was taken, he said, because the populous northeastern part of Ohio is not adequately represented in congress.

Under the Sheppard bill, Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties would be put into the new 11th district with Athens, Gallia, Lawrence, Jackson, Meigs and Vinton counties, this area being predominantly Republican, while Fairfield and Perry counties would join with counties of the present 15th district, including Muskingum, Guernsey, Morgan, Noble, Monroe, and Washington, also Republican strongholds.

POPPY DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY SATURDAY

VFW And Legion Auxiliary Members To Conduct Annual Sale

MADE BY WAR VICTIMS

Leaders Ask Support Of General Public In Patriotic Effort

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Circleville with members of Howard Hall post, American Legion, auxiliary and members of Henry Page Folsom post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, auxiliary appearing on the streets during the day. The Legion's street is known as Poppy Day, while the VFW's name is Buddy Poppy Day.

The poppies are bought from disabled veterans of the first world war who make them in hospitals. Profit from the sales goes to worthy undertakings.

Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Pickaway township, is chairman of the Legion auxiliary's program while Mrs. Anna Bennett, 123 North Scioto street, directs the VFW project. The VFW sale is the twenty-second for the organization.

In announcing the sale, Mrs. Bennett made the following statement: "Every one should wear a Buddy Poppy. Honor the dead by helping the living. Every orphan deserves a chance for happiness equal to that enjoyed by the average American child. This opportunity is given the orphans of veterans by the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

"Proceeds from the annual Buddy Poppy sale make possible the maintenance of this orphanage. Buddy Poppies also offer a source of employment and relief for needy and disabled veterans in their home communities."

"For these two reasons we all should wear Buddy Poppies. Americans who value their liberties must correspondingly appreciate the services of those who have made possible the preservation of those liberties and the protection of our nation."

Should Wear Poppy

"The practice of wearing a Buddy Poppy on Memorial Day each year symbolizes not alone our wish to commemorate the sacrifices of those who gave their lives for our country, but also our wish to help those veterans and their families who may be in need of financial assistance today. Despite the increased demands being made on us at this time, we should make an extra effort to support the poppy sale."

Mrs. Bennett said the project is even more important this year since funds obtained will be used to aid families of veterans of World War II in addition to World War I. "The care of afflicted soldiers is a cause that has never lacked our support," the drive chairman said. "The Buddy Poppies made by men who have served the nation in its overseas service should be purchased by every citizen with a sense of gratitude for the defense of freedom and goodness on the earth and the American way of life."

Mayor's Proclamation

A proclamation issued by Mayor Ben H. Gordon on the Legion auxiliary's Poppy day follows:

"Whereas, the wearing of the memorial poppy is a fitting and effective way of keeping bright the memory of those young men who gave their lives in American service in the World War and now those of this present conflict, and

"Whereas, the names of new heroes have been added recently to those who gave the supreme sacrifice in the previous war, and

"Whereas, today's crisis requires the same type of unselfish patriotism displayed by these men and symbolized by their memorial flower, and

"Whereas, the women of the auxiliaries of veterans organizations will distribute veteran-made memorial poppies throughout the city on Saturday, May 29,

"Now, therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon, mayor of the city of Circleville, do proclaim Saturday, May 29, to be Poppy Day, and urge all citizens to observe the day by wearing the memorial poppy honoring men who died for America in 1917 and 1918 and in 1941, 1942 and 1943."

Plan To Redistrict State Strikes Snag In House; Doom Apparent

An Ohio senate move to revamp the state's congressional districts in 1950, virtually eliminating the 11th Ohio district as a political power, has apparently been doomed in the house of representatives after passing the senate. The measure went through the senate without much opposition, but has struck a snag in the house reference committee.

Opposition to the measure from Republican and Democratic members of the Ohio delegation in congress is credited in a large way for blocking the bill, presented by Senator Carl D. Sheppard, Akron Republican.

Senator Sheppard conceded defeat, but said that if he is reelected to the senate he will present legislation which will call for redistricting.

The Akron solon's action was taken, he said, because the populous northeastern part of Ohio is not adequately represented in congress.

Under the Sheppard bill, Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties would be put into the new 11th district with Athens, Gallia, Lawrence, Jackson, Meigs and Vinton counties, this area being predominantly Republican, while Fairfield and Perry counties would join with counties of the present 15th district, including Muskingum, Guernsey, Morgan, Noble, Monroe, and Washington, also Republican strongholds.

TO ALL PERSONS

FRIENDS: One of the best messages for Memorial Day was spoken more than 2,000 years before Memorial Day began. It is found in a recorded speech of the famous Athenian leader Pericles, commemorating the Greek soldiers who had died for their country. "For you," he said, "it now remains to do as much as they have done." The same thought was beautifully expressed in a poem written by John McCrae in the last World War, shortly before his own death:

"Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders field."

Today, in another great war, there is the same solemn responsibility to carry on, the same devotion to country and flag, the same insistence on preserving national ideals and the free way of life that began in ancient Greece and have come down through the ages since, often darkened or submerged but never lost.

TO JUDSON LANMAN

PREXY: Congratulations to you on your election as president of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce. You have a big pair of shoes to fill since Jim Yost did a splendid job as leader of the local organization in its first year of operation, but I believe you will do well in your new undertaking. The Jaycees have a big job to do in Circleville, and it is under your leadership that all activities will center during the next year. One of the foremost projects you have undertaken is erection of an Honor Roll at the courthouse containing names of all boys who have entered Uncle Sam's various branches of service in this struggle. I hope that you keep pushing plans for this permanent Honor Roll until it is completed. I feel sure that financial assistance will be provided. The present Honor Roll board is not large enough to permit names of all boys in service to be posted. At least 800 more are waiting to be added to the list. Their parents, wives and friends want to see their names on the Honor Roll. I hope you have a year of success.

BUGABOO: Some people have been wondering whether abnormal rains and floods are not produced by all the shooting, and believe me, there is plenty of that. The same question arose in the last war, and was answered by experts negatively, as it is now. There has long been a general belief, or at least a suspicion, that

Creation of AAFSAT Seen
Trend to Unified Department

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

● THE "AAFSAT" is just beginning to be referred to in the news columns. Without loss of time we may as well begin trying to learn what institution this particular collection of initials stands for.

Initialization is an editor's way of compacting the troublesomely long names of many of our governmental, commercial and other large organizations into short space for convenience in headwriting and reading. The system has reached a point where it verges on abbreviating the Christian religion as the "CR," leaving the reader to guess what is being mentioned.

Many of these contractions gradually have become adequately recognized. In the course of years we have grown to accept the "GAR" as meaning the Grand Army of the Republic, the "A F of L" as meaning the American Federation of Labor, the "CIO" as signifying the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and today nobody needs to be told that the "UMW" stands for the United Mine Workers of America.

It is like the initials "BC"—Before Christ. We are so accustomed to such initializations that we pretty nearly understand them better than we do the full names that they are representative of. Of late, though, initialization has gone cuckoo.

The war developed it up to the nth power.

Creation of government commissions, administrations and offices progressed at such a rate that, initialized, you can't keep track of them—the differences between the "OPA," the "OWI," the "MPC" and codes more of them.

For instance, the other day I encountered half a column of your explosions produce rainfall. If this were true there would surely be a lot of precipitation, as the weather experts call it. But shooting isn't the answer to it all. It just rains when it rains, and this Spring it has been doing plenty of it. There isn't any question that the agricultural situation is in serious circumstances because of the steady downpours of the entire month of May. Planting is far behind schedule; plowing of corn which has been planted is also being delayed giving weeds a chance to obtain strangleholds on the young plants. But we have a little to cheer about. This district hasn't been hit nearly so hard as have other farm producing areas in the middlewest. Some of these valuable lands have been laid waste, and there chances for growing crops this Summer have been reduced greatly. Pasture lands, wheat and other products, excepting corn, are benefitting somewhat from the great moisture, and there is a likelihood that the water table for the district has been greatly elevated by the steady rains. We can just wait and hope that the Fall season does not strike us too early to prevent corn from maturing. Uncle Sam and his allies need a lot of food, and Old Man Weather could be a help instead of a detriment.

TO SOYBEAN GROWERS

FARMERS: The other evening one of the nation's outstanding soybean experts was in Circleville to appear before the Kiwanis club. He was E. F. Johnson, known intimately wherever soybeans are grown as 'Soybean'. If all of you men could have heard Mr. Johnson speak you would have realized the importance of the bean that has grown from a minor crop into a major one in a few years. Mr. Johnson pointed out that soybeans are vital as oil producers, filling a great war role in that respect. They are also important when turned into flour, and their role in the plastic industry is another point in their favor. Government agencies have promised to release more equipment to help harvest the beans this year, and they are promising processors a fair opportunity for profit, so everything points toward a splendid season for soybeans, for the farmer who produces them, for the mill that processes them and for the nation which uses the products. Do your best to make your soybean crop a good one.

TO DRAFT BOARD

MEMBERS: The other day you were given well-deserved recognition for your work when the Rotary club conducted its meeting especially in your honor. The role you are performing in the war effort was pointed out, and each member of the draft organization, including the board, advisers, medical assistants, board employees and others was honored. That you are doing a splendid job is known. Every one realizes the difficult tasks you have before you. When drafting of fathers begins one of these days Selective Service will enter its most difficult period. It is proper that you should receive recognition such as the Rotary club provided you, because your job is a thankless one and every boost is a welcome one.

ALL: Poppy Day is being observed Saturday in Circleville, and proclamations setting aside the day have been signed by Mayor Ben Gordon making the event official. I hope that every one will wear a poppy. It's a patriotic duty.

Tobacco Effects Slight On High Blood Pressure

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE DISCUSSED last week some of the fears whether well founded or not—as to the effect of tobacco and concluded that Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

while "moderate" was a word subject to considerable personal interpretation, moderate smoking will not bring on any diseased condition, either functional or organic.

There remains the question of whether smoking is harmful to people who are not entirely healthy at the time of beginning the experience. Those who have high blood pressure are particularly anxious about this subject. In making a decision on the point it is obvious that we have to have some standards. It will not do to leave it merely to opinion nor to the report of the person with high blood pressure as to how he feels. After taking a smoke, the fellow with high blood pressure will always defiantly tell his wife that he "feels fine."

By way of having a standard, we know that physiologically tobacco contracts the blood vessels, particularly on the surface of the body. By using a thermometer which takes merely surface temperature—that is, applied to the surface of the skin—we have a method of measuring the effect of tobacco.

Experiments on Students
With this standard of measurement Drs. Cates and Giovannazzi, of Los Angeles, experimented on six young, healthy medical students. They found in all of them that the peripheral temperature of the skin was decreased from 1.8° C. to 6.5° C. after smoking. In the group of people with high blood pressure, most of them over 50 years old, after smoking the change of temperature in the skin of the fingers and toes was never more than 3.5° C. and most of them, less than 1° C.

In studying the effect of tobacco on the same two groups as to the change in blood pressure the young, healthy medical students showed an elevation in blood pressure of from 13 to 35 points. In the group of high blood pressure patients of older age the greatest

LOIS EBY and JOHN C. FLEMING

SYNOPSIS
Notified that her brother, MELVIN MARSDEN, is missing in action, JEAN MARSDEN, who has risen to the top as a fashion model, quits her job to become secretary to STEVE LANDIS, director of a new rubber plant in Mexico. Jean has as abrupt introduction to carefree, handsome CURLEY, employed by MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON, owners of the Rancho Casanova. Jean appears to have roused the jealousy of ROSITA, pretty little Mexican girl who is in love with Curley.

YESTERDAY: Curley comes into town, gets Jean and takes her back to the rancho with him for dinner.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON were waiting by the dinner table which had been laid in the patio.

"Well, this is more like it!" Mr. Parkinson advanced to take both of Jean's hands as she came through the wall gate, with Curley following her.

Mrs. Parkinson's laugh was softly rebuking. "You really put me on a spot, darling, by insisting on moving out before they came home."

"Didn't you have enough of an audience for your tales of travel and brave deeds?" Jean teased.

"That's exactly it," affirmed Mr. Parkinson. "Loudly, always lifts one of those patrician eyebrows at me and murmurs, 'Really! That's no decent reaction, now is it?'"

A servant lit the storm candles as they sat down. Rosita's place was empty. Jean's eyes met Mrs. Parkinson's in silent question. Mrs. Parkinson nodded, smiling. "I suppose there is no use trying to cover it," she murmured. "Rosita decided she would dine in her room when we told her Curley had gone after you."

"What!" Curley regarded Mrs. Parkinson in quick surprise. "You mean," he scoffed incredulously, "that one of my girls objects to another of my girls?"

They laughed at his arrogance, but Curley leaped to his feet. "This is unthinkable. I'll bring her down." His lithe, tall body swung across winding outer stairs to the upper balcony. He gave a couple of gay, piercing whistles as he disappeared into the darkness of the upper floor.

"He'll laugh her out of it," said Parkinson easily. "She's quite a gal, Rosita!"

"Yes—she is." To Jean, the period of silence that followed Curley's disappearance seemed an interminable age. As she played with the delicious oysters in her cocktail glass, she could see too plainly Curley laughing Rosita out of it. She would be waiting for him—weeping, perhaps, her huge eyes tragic, her caressing voice heavy with pain. Or she would throw herself into his arms pleading passionately for his affection. Surely, if he intended bringing her back to the table, he'd be here before now!

At last he appeared on the balcony, ran down the winding stairs and came back to the table. Jean despaired herself for her moment of jealous torture. She did not even look up as he said cheerfully, "I'm not such a hot persuader."

They passed the subject off easily. Mrs. Parkinson said, "She'll be all right in the morning." Mr. Parkinson winked at Jean and murmured, "The little girl will just have to learn to face these crises." And went on with his glowing and graphic account of their trip. Curley, he said, had been a fine pilot. Once at the controls he had shown none of his usual tendencies to sleep 15 minutes out of every hour, as he did at home.

Curley yawned. "I'll make up for it," he promised, grinning.

Mrs. Parkinson asked in detail about Mexico City. "Do you know, I've been there only once," she said to Jean, "but I loved it. Do you suppose you can wangle that hard-working boss of yours into giving you a vacation in a few months to go down with me?"

Jean gasped with delight. "I'll do my best in such a worthy cause," she promised.

Their running chatter went on effortlessly through the delectable courses. The servant had whisked Rosita's plate from the table, and they heard no more of her until they were lingering over cigars and cordials. Then suddenly there fragrance of the evening the haunting strains of her melodious. Her slight, sweet voice throbbled with tender hopelessness.

They exchanged glances of sympathetic amusement at the girl's dramatizing. "Do you hear what she's singing?" Mrs. Parkinson whispered. "Hasta la Vista—the song she sings when Curley has gone away."

Curley had the grace to grow slightly embarrassed. He suggested they go for a walk. Mrs. Parkinson laughed at him. "Just to give your conscience some air? I, for one, don't feel the need of exercise, and I don't believe Jean does either. She's been a pretty busy girl. In fact, her adventures began the night before you here that night she and Mr. Landis saw the train wrecked and they were shot at by a carload of escaping bandits!"

Curley's gaze swung around to Jean with sudden flattering intensity. "Is that so?" he cried.

Jean nodded. "Absolutely. It was the thrill of a lifetime."

"You mean they wrecked the train to rob it?" Mr. Parkinson demanded, shocked.

"And got away with the mail bag," Jean nodded. "Fortunately, there were no passengers." She was carefully weighing her words, giving out no more information than necessary as Steve had requested, though she longed to recite the whole colorful story including the constant haunting of their office by the chief of police. They would enjoy it.

For once, Curley's lightheartedness seemed to have deserted him. When Jean mentioned this archly, he grinned, slightly abashed. "It's kind of a terrible thought," he admitted, "that crime must rear its ugly head way down in a forgotten little Eden like this. Was anyone hurt?"

Jean told of her evening of playing nurse to the Mexican engineer, trainman and Steve. Curley bristled with spirit at the mention of Steve. "That settles it," he told her firmly. "I won't have you going to any more wrecks if you insist on nursing afterward. I'll have to stay at home and keep you away from wrecks."

"Not if you drive me around in that Fordage of yours," retorted Jean. "There's a potential wreck in every mile."

Mr. Parkinson was viewing the problem from a standpoint of logic. "I can't see why hold-up men would have to wreck a train to rob it," he muttered. "Why couldn't they have waved a flag on the track? That funny little train would stop for anything."

"Maybe they wanted to show what big, bad wolves they were," shrugged Curley. "Don't you think it might be exciting to fix a couple of tracks and then lie there waiting till the train came along and went boom?"

"No, I don't." Mr. Parkinson's tone was sharp, his usual appreciation of Curley's banter missing. "There are some things which are not exactly suitable subjects for levity, Curley."

Curley received the rebuke good naturedly. "Spoken like a father," he murmured. "And now what about some music to soothe the savage breast?"

"Aren't you ever serious, Curley?" cried Jean despairingly, as Curley drove her home later, through a warm fog blowing in off the sea.

"Right now I am."

She turned to give him his handsome profile a puzzled frown. "What do you mean by that?"

Curley was coming into the outskirts of the village. Curley pulled down the throttle and the Fordage wheeled to a slow stop beside a giant Yucca tree. He straightened under the wheel and shoved his hand down into his pocket to bring out a small box. "Open it," he commanded.

Wonderingly, Jean removed the cover, and pulled out a delicately carved silver bracelet. She cried out with impulsive delight at the dainty ornament, as she slid it over her slim hand. "Thank you," she said lightly. "It's a lovely coming home gift."

"It isn't a gift," said Curley. "It's a fair trade."

Before she could make a move to stop him, his arms had swept her to him. He had kissed her—a short, rough kiss that left her flaming faced, breathless. Angriely she cried, "You—"

His strong, sensitive, vibrant hands were pinning hers at her sides. "Remember this, my beautiful Jeanie." His voice cut harshly into the quiet night, his black eyes, not laughing, searched her face with a strange look. "No matter what I do, I'll always—feel the same way about you."

Two minutes later, with a last screech of brakes, he had swung up before her hotel.

TO ALL PERSONS

FRIENDS: One of the best messages for Memorial Day was spoken more than 2,000 years before Memorial Day began. It is found in a recorded speech of the famous Athenian leader Pericles, commemorating the Greek soldiers who had died for their country. "For you," he said, "it now remains to do as much as they have done." The same thought was beautifully expressed in a poem written by John McCrae in the last World War, shortly before his own death:

"Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders field."

Today, in another great war, there is the same solemn responsibility to carry on, the same devotion to country and flag, the same insistence on preserving national ideals and the free way of life that began in ancient Greece and have come down through the ages since, often darkened or submerged but never lost.

TO JUDSON LANMAN

PREXY: Congratulations to you on your election as president of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce. You have a big pair of shoes to fill since Jim Yost did a splendid job as leader of the local organization in its first year of operation, but I believe you will do well in your new undertaking. The Jaycees have a big job to do in Circleville, and it is under your leadership that all activities will center during the next year. One of the foremost projects you have undertaken is erection of an Honor Roll at the courthouse containing names of all boys who have entered Uncle Sam's various branches of service in this struggle. I hope that you keep pushing plans for this permanent Honor Roll until it is completed. I feel sure that financial assistance will be provided. The present Honor Roll board is not large enough to permit names of all boys in service to be posted. At least 800 more are waiting to be added to the list. Their parents, wives and friends want to see their names on the Honor Roll. I hope you have a year of success.

TO MR. RAIN

BUGABOO: Some people have been wondering whether abnormal rains and floods are not produced by all the shooting, and believe me, there is plenty of that. The same question arose in the last war, and was answered by experts negatively, as it is now. There has long been a general belief, or at least a suspicion, that explosions produce rainfall. If this were true there would surely be a lot of precipitation, as the weather experts call it. But shooting isn't the answer to it all. It just rains when it rains, and this Spring it has been doing plenty of it. There isn't any question that the agricultural situation is in serious circumstances because of the steady downpours of the entire month of May. Planting is far behind schedule; plowing of corn which has been planted is also being delayed giving weeds a chance to obtain strangleholds on the young plants. But we have a little to cheer about. This district hasn't been hit nearly so hard as have other farm producing areas in the middlewest. Some of these valuable lands have been laid waste, and there chances for growing crops this Summer have been reduced greatly. Pasture lands, wheat and other products, excepting corn, are benefitting somewhat from the great moisture, and there is a likelihood that the water table for the district has been greatly elevated by the steady rains. We can just wait and hope that the Fall season does not strike us too early to prevent corn from maturing. Uncle Sam and his allies need a lot of food, and Old Man Weather could be a help instead of a detriment.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SOYBEAN GROWERS

FARMERS: The other evening one of the nation's outstanding soybean experts was in Circleville to appear before the Kiwanis club. He was E. F. Johnson, known intimately wherever soybeans are grown as 'Soybean'. If all of you men could have heard Mr. Johnson speak you would have realized the importance of the bean that has grown from a minor crop into a major one in a few years. Mr. Johnson pointed out that soybeans are vital as oil producers, filling a great war role in that respect. They are also important when turned into flour, and their role in the plastic industry is another point in their favor. Government agencies have promised to release more equipment to help harvest the beans this year, and they are promising processors a fair opportunity for profit, so everything points toward a splendid season for soybeans, for the farmer who produces them, for the mill that processes them and for the nation which uses the products. Do your best to make your soybean crop a good one.

CIRCUITEER.

TO DRAFT BOARD

MEMBERS: The other day you were given well-deserved recognition for your work when the Rotary club conducted its meeting especially in your honor. The role you are performing in the war effort was pointed out, and each member of the draft organization, including the board, advisers, medical assistants, board employees and others was honored. That you are doing a splendid job is known. Every one realizes the difficult tasks you have before you. When drafting of fathers begins one of these days Selective Service will enter its most difficult period. It is proper that you should receive recognition such as the Rotary club provided you, because your job is a thankless one and every boost is a welcome one.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EVERY ONE

ALL: Poppy Day is being observed Saturday in Circleville, and proclamations setting aside the day have been signed by Mayor Ben Gordon making the event official. These poppies are important to war organizations' auxiliaries since they provide funds to carry on some work among service men who are in the nation's hospitals. I hope that every one will wear a poppy. It's a patriotic duty.

Tobacco Effects Slight On High Blood Pressure

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE DISCUSSED last week some of the fears—whether well founded or not—as to the effect of tobacco and concluded that while "moderate" was a word subject to considerable personal interpretation, moderate smoking will not bring on any diseased condition, either functional or organic.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

There remains the question of whether smoking is harmful to people who are not entirely healthy at the time of beginning the experience. Those who have high blood pressure are particularly anxious about this subject. In making a decision on the point it is obvious that we have to have some standards. It will not do to leave it merely to opinion nor to the report of the person with high blood pressure as to how he feels. After taking a smoke, the fellow with high blood pressure will always defiantly tell his wife that he "feels fine."

By way of having a standard, we know that physiologically tobacco contracts the blood vessels, particularly on the surface of the body. By using a thermometer which takes merely surface temperature—that is, applied to the surface of the skin—we have a method of measuring the effect of tobacco.

Experiments on Students
With this standard of measurement Drs. Cates and Giovannuzzi, of Los Angeles, experimented on six young, healthy medical students. They found in all of them that the peripheral temperature of the skin was decreased from 1.8° C. to 0.5° C. after smoking. In the group of people with high blood pressure, most of them over 60 years old, after smoking the change of temperature in the skin of the fingers and toes was never more than 3.5° C., and most of them, less than 1° C.

In studying the effect of tobacco on the same two groups as to the change in blood pressure the young, healthy medical students showed an elevation in blood pressure of from 15 to 35 points. In the group of high blood pressure patients of older age the greatest nalistic comment relative to the activities of the "SSB" "OASIS." "SSB" (Social Security Board) was clear enough, but the "S" in the sub setup puzzled me into an investigation, revealing that the latter is the "SSB's" old age and survivors insurance bureau. Leaving the "B" for bureau, off from the "OASIS" was what confused me.

Now for the "AAFSAT." It seems that this translates into the Army Air Forces School of Applied Tactics.

We have had an Army and a Navy department, pretty independent of one another. Their functions did not automatically mix to any extent. Now they do mix. Aviation mixed them.

In fact, it has become somewhat predominant over either or both of them. Well, the "AAFSAT's" function is to effect a merger. With Aviation in a majority of the three.

Before this war got fairly started aviation was considered an Army and a Navy adjunct—each. To date it is reckoned that THEY are aviation branches, with the flying command as the main thing.

They are due to be subordinated to it as a couple of collateral arms.

Combining them on that basis is rather difficult, however, that is the purpose of the "AAFSAT." It is to be done, to a certain extent, by degree.

Nevertheless, it is agreed by experts that the business of war is transformed. The Navy already is being rebuilt. It is to consist of transportation craft—plane carriers largely. Land fighters are to be available for the occupancy of terrain already under control from overhead.

The idea is that we need, not two or three departments but a single department of the whole thing. The "AAFSAT" is to be it.

Brig. Gen. Hume Peabody summarizes: "Sea, air and ground coordination—of the over-all command."

In short, the "AAFSAT" is to be a new department. Army and Navy cabinetships are to snuff out—gradually. They are to become mere undersecretariats.

The War department will be one unit, with the aviatorial boss as supreme chief.

CURLEY, employed by MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON, owners of the Rancho Casolina. Jean appears to have roused the jealousy of ROSITA, pretty little Mexican girl who is in love with Curley.

YESTERDAY: Curley comes into town, gets Jean and takes her back to the rancho with him for dinner.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON were waiting by the dinner table which had been laid in the patio.

"Well, this is more like it!" Mr. Parkinson advanced to take both of Jean's hands as she came through the wall gate, with Curley following her.

Mrs. Parkinson's laugh was softly rebuking. "You really put me on a spot, darling, by insisting on moving out before they came home."

"Didn't you have enough of an audience for your tales of travel and brave deeds?" Jean teased.

"That's exactly it," affirmed Mr. Parkinson. "Louise always lifts one of those patrician eyebrows at me and murmurs, 'Really! That's no decent reaction, now is it?'"

A servant lit the storm candles as they sat down. Rosita's place was empty. Jean's eyes met Mrs. Parkinson's in silent question. Mrs. Parkinson nodded, smiling. "I suppose there is no use trying to cover it," she murmured. "Rosita decided she would dine in her room when we told her Curley had gone after you."

"What!" Curley regarded Mrs. Parkinson in quick surprise. "You mean," he scoffed incredulously, "that one of my girls objects to another of my girls?"

They laughed at his arrogance, but Curley leaped to his feet. "This is unthinkable. I'll bring her down." His little, tall body swung across winding outer stairs to the upper balcony. He gave a couple of gay, piercing whistles as he disappeared into the darkness of the upper floor.

"He'll laugh her out of it," said Parkinson easily. "She's quite a gal, Rosita!"

"Yes—she is." To Jean, the period of silence that followed Curley's disappearance seemed an interminable age. As she played with the delicious oysters in her cocktail glass, she could see too plainly Curley laughing Rosita out of it. She would be waiting for him—weeping, perhaps, her huge eyes tragic, her caressing voice heavy with pain. Or she would throw herself into his arms pleading passionately for his affection. Surely, if he intended bringing her back to the table, he'd be here before now!

At last he appeared on the balcony, ran down the winding stairs and came back to the table. Jean clasped herself for her moment of jealous torture. She did not even look up as he said cheerfully, "I'm not such a hot persuader."

They passed the subject off easily. Mrs. Parkinson said, "She'll be all right in the morning." Mr. Parkinson winked at Jean and murmured, "The little girl will just have to learn to face the crises."

And went on with his glowing and graphic account of their trip. Curley, he said, had been a fine pilot. Once at the controls he had shown none of his usual tendencies to sleep 15 minutes out of every hour, as he did at home.

Curley yawned. "I'll make up for it," he promised, grinning.

Mrs. Parkinson asked in detail about Mexico City. "Do you know, I've been there only once," she said to Jean, "but I loved it. Do you suppose you can wrangle that hard-working boss of yours into giving you a vacation in a few months to go down with me?"

Curley gasped with delight. "I'll do my best in such a worthy cause," she promised.

Their running chatter went on effortlessly through the delectable courses. The servant had whisked Rosita's plate from the table, and they heard no more of her until they were lingering over cigars and cordials. Then suddenly there floated down through the warm fragrance of the evening the haunting strains of her melody. Her slight, sweet voice thrummed with tender hopelessness.

They exchanged glances of sympathetic amusement at the girl's dramatizing. "Do you hear what she's singing?" Mrs. Parkinson whispered. "Hasta la Vista!—the song she sings when Curley has gone away."

Curley had the grace to grow slightly embarrassed. He suggested they go for a walk. Mrs. Parkinson laughed at him. "Just to give your conscience some air? I, for one, don't feel the need of exercise, and I don't believe Jean does either. She's been a pretty busy girl. In fact, her adventures began the night before you two left. On their way home from here that night she and Mr. Landis saw the train wrecked and they were shot at by a carload of escaping bandits!"

Curley's gaze swung around to Jean with sudden flustering intensity. "Is that so?" he cried.

Curley nodded. "Absolutely. It was the thrill of a lifetime."

"You mean they wrecked the train to rob it?" Mr. Parkinson demanded, shocked.

"And got away with the mail bag," Jean nodded. "Fortunately, there were no passengers." She was carefully weighing her words, giving out no more information than necessary as Steve had requested, though she longed to recite the whole colorful story, including the constant haunting of their office by the chief of police. They would enjoy it.

For once, Curley's lightheartedness seemed to have deserted him. When Jean mentioned this archly, he grinned, slightly abashed. "It's a kind of a terrible thought," he admitted. "The crime must rear its ugly head way down in a forgotten

little Eden like this. Was anyone hurt?"

Jean told of her evening of playing nurse to the Mexican engineer, trainman and Steve. Curley bristled with spirit at the mention of Steve. "That settles it," he told her firmly. "I won't have you going to any more wrecks if you insist on nursing that good-looking boss of yours afterward. I'll have to stay at home and keep you away from wrecks."

"Not if you drive me around in that Fordango of yours," retorted Jean. "There's a potential wreck in every mile."

Mr. Parkinson was viewing the problem from a standpoint of logic. "I can't see why hold-up men would have to wreck a train to rob it," he muttered. "Why couldn't they have waved a flag on the track? That funny little train would stop for anything."

"Maybe they wanted to show what big bad wolves they were," shrugged Curley. "Don't you think it might be exciting to fix a couple of trucks and then lie there waiting till the train came along and went boom?"

"No, I don't." Mr. Parkinson's tone was sharp, his usual appreciation of Curley's banter missing. "There are some things which are not exactly suitable subjects for levity, Curley."

Curley received the rebuke good naturedly. "Spoken like a father," he murmured. "And now what about some music to soothe the savage breast?"

"Aren't you ever serious, Curley?" cried Jean despairingly. As Curley drove her home later, through a warm fog blowing in off the sea.

Creation of AAFSAT Seen Trend to Unified Department

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

THE "AAFSAT" is just beginning to be referred to in the news columns. Without loss of time we may as well begin trying to learn what institution this particular collection of initials stands for.

Initialization is an editor's way of compacting the troublesomely long names of many of our governmental, commercial and other large organizations into short space for convenience in headwriting and reading. The system has reached a point where it verges on abbreviating the Christian religion as the "CR," leaving the reader to guess what is being mentioned.

Many of these contractions gradually have become adequately recognized. In the course of years we have grown to accept the "GAR" as meaning the Grand Army of the Republic, the A F of L as meaning the American Federation of Labor, the "CIO" as signifying the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and today nobody needs to be told that the "UMW" stands for the United Mine Workers of America.

It is like the initials "BC"—Before Christ. We are so accustomed to such initializations that we pretty nearly understand them better than we do the full names that they are representative of. Of late, though, initialization has gone cuckoo.

The war developed it up to the nth power. Creation of government commissions, administrations and offices progressed at such a rate that, initialized, you can't keep track of them—the differences between the "OPA," the "OWI," the "MPC" and oodles more of them.

For instance, the other day I encountered half a column of four-

Peter's Counsel to Scattered Christians

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 30 is I Peter 1:1; 2:9-25, the Golden Text being I Peter 2:17, "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood; Fear God. Honor the king.")

IN THE first verse of I Peter, Peter, the Rock, as Jesus called him, says: "Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia." These places are located in what is now known as Asia Minor.

Many of those to whom Peter wrote were converts from Judaism, and a large number were Gentiles. All were suffering cruel hardships and temptations. The state was not persecuting them at this time, but fanatical Jews and hostile pagans were. Slander, violence, hatred, suspicion, loss of goods, worldly ruin were facing them, so Peter wrote to them, letters full of hope and advice as to how they should meet their trials, and giving them comfort and counsel to strengthen their faith and inspire courage.

"But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, and holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye show forth the praises of Him who hath called you out of darkness into His marvellous light."

Told They Are Dear to God
Imagine these people, despised of their neighbors, suspected of all sorts of underhand plots, receiving these letters telling them that they were a "royal priesthood, a holy nation," dear to God, their Father, "who hath called you out of darkness into His marvellous light."

Then Peter told them the line of conduct they should follow to get the greatest good out of their lives and to get along as well as possible with those with whom they must live for the time.

Live good lives, clean and upright. Be honest in your conversations with the Gentiles, he wrote them, "that, whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may by your good works, which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation."

He advised them to obey the laws "for the Lord's sake," whether it be the king or the governors who are sent by the king to punish the evildoers and reward the good. "For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men."

The world hated the religion of Jesus from its start, and was always trying to prove that Jesus' followers were plotting against the government, planning to overthrow the empire and set Jesus up in place of Caesar. A quiet, peaceable, law-abiding life, therefore, should be theirs.

As free men they were not to use their freedom as a cloak of wickedness, but as "the servants of God." We hear so much of freedom these days. Let us, too, follow Peter's advice and use our freedom as "servants of God."

Honor All Men

"Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king." Honor all men—all! Not just the people we know and love, not only those that are fine, honorable, noble in all ways that call forth our admiration; but all men—the wicked and the good; those we call savages, and the highly civilized; educated and ignorant. We should honor them all, because, in spite of differences, they were all made in God's image—even the most besmirched. How many of us could measure up to that ideal of a Christian? We may be able to love those with whom we are associated—the brotherhood—but can we love all? Servants should be submissive to their masters—not only to kind masters, but to those that are disagreeable. Suffering they should endure patiently. If they were punished for faults, and were patient under that, what virtue was there? They knew that punishment was just. But when they were punished for things they did not do; when they suffered unjustly and bore all with gentleness and meekness, that was acceptable to God.

Jesus was to be their example for although He never sinned in His short life on earth, when He was reviled, "He reviled not again; when He suffered, He threatened not; but submitted Himself to Him that judgeth righteously." With His own body suffered He our sins, that we might live in righteousness. "For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls."

With His own body suffered He our sins, that we might live in righteousness. "For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls."

If they were punished for faults, and were patient under that, what virtue was there? They knew that punishment was just. But when they were punished for things they did not do; when they suffered unjustly and bore all that with gentleness and meekness, that was acceptable to God.

Jesus was to be their example, for although He never sinned in His short life on earth, when He was reviled, He reviled not again; when He suffered, He threatened not; but submitted Himself to Him that judgeth righteously.

With His own body suffered He our sins, that we might live in righteousness. "For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls."

Make This Memorial Day Truly Memorable

What better — what more patriotic way — to observe this Memorial Day than to make it truly a memorable occasion by purchasing extra War Bonds — as your tribute to those who have fought and died for our country — as your contribution to those who are fighting so valiantly on today's battlefields.

On far-flung fronts American men are giving their lives to make Victory sure and swift as possible! On the home-front, you are asked to lend your dollars! Compare their sacrifice and yours — then dig down and buy more Bonds than you thought you could! Make Memorial Day, 1943, a time of real dedication to our heroic fighting men — buy extra Bonds for a sincere memorial!

Count Fleet Will Face Whirly, Alsab, Others In Tests of Ability

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, May 28.—"Race horses come in all shapes and sizes—and the main thing is to get there in front," said Alex Robb, executive secretary of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. "Some horses, like War Admiral, are comparatively small. Others, like Exterminator, are big. Moreover, some of them, like Seabiscuit, run constantly as two-year-olds without showing much. Others, like Sun Beau, make only a couple of two-year-old starts, and come on to greatness later. So what you hear about Count Fleet really isn't very important yet."

This was in reply to one of the burning questions of the moment wherever the sports mob gathers, viz:

Is Count Fleet great, despite his faulty running?
He's supposed to be a little away-backed, with his head too high as he burns up one track after another, and some people tell you that it is only a question of time until he winds up with all four of his feet tied in a big tangled knot.

I'm not saying any of these things, but some experts make a point of his faults, if any, whenever they gather on an evening over their tea and tiffins and it is enough to make you wonder how Count Fleet wins at all to hear them rant about him.

To Best Older Horses

"It is my belief that regardless of anything you might find wrong with Count Fleet at the moment, any horseman would grab him in a minute—that's the test in this case," Robb went on. "It is my belief too that when he enters the handicap division he will come through with flying colors against the older horses."

"I think he is likely to establish himself as the best horse we've seen in a decade at least. Yes, he might yet be rated alongside Man O'War and Exterminator, everything being dependent now on what he does in the handicaps."

In this connection it might be mentioned again that Man O'War was beaten only once in 21 starts—the well-named upset doing it by a half length. Exterminator ran an even hundred times, won 50, was in the money 84 times and of the 16 times he was out of the money he finished worse than fourth only seven times.

Count Fleet was never out of the money as a two-year-old and so far he has spreadeagled the three-year-old field with five straight.

He started the year with a minor triumph, then took the Wood Memorial, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Withers in stride without ever being pressed even slightly and will attempt to clinch the triple crown and complete the major cleanup a week from tomorrow in the Belmont Stakes.

To Face Whirly, Alsab
After that probably will come the American derby and the Classic at Chicago, and soon thereafter he is expected to start running against Whirlaway, Market Wise, Alsab and the other older horses to prove beyond further rebuttal his right to all-time greatness.

Those races later this year will tell the story, assuming he goes against the big ones, when he will have to pour it on, for instance, against that Whirlaway which comes tearing from behind down the stretch. The Fleet can run in any kind of going and at any distance. These races will prove his all-around class.

WILDCATS BOOK TWO CONFERENCE TILTS AT NIGHT
EVANSTON, Ill., May 28.—The Northwestern university Wildcats were scheduled today to play two night football games in Dwyer stadium, one against Indiana September 25 and the other against Michigan October 2.

Lighting facilities to be installed for the game between the College All-Stars and the Washington Redskins August 25 will be used for Northwestern's two night games. The all-star game, which usually is held in Chicago's Soldier field, was moved to Dwyer stadium this year.

In announcing the night games, K. L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, said the night games were scheduled to give Northwestern fans, many of whom will be employed in war industries, a chance to see the Wildcats in action.

SENATORS JUMP INTO AMERICAN LOOP TOP SPOT

Washington Turns St. Louis Browns Back 4 To 2 While Cleveland Drops Pair

TIGERS WHIP YANKEES

Cincinnati Blasts Phillies; Bums Lose to Pirates; Four Of Team Chased Out

NEW YORK, May 28.—It's anybody's pennant in the American league from here in. This was proved when the last place Boston Red Sox trounced the loop-leading Cleveland Indians in a doubleheader, 2 to 0 and 4 to 3, to narrow down that space between the top and bottom of the league to the breadth of a hair.

Then in a Washington night game the Senators returned to top place in the league lead by trimming the St. Louis Browns 4 to 2. This game was Earl Wynn's third consecutive victory for Washington.

Tex Hughson pitched the first game for the Red Sox, a morning contest, allowing only five hits for his second shutout and third victory of the year. The Red Sox runs were scored in the fifth, when Bobby Doerr singled off Mike Nymkovich with the bases loaded.

The Red Sox returned in the nightcap to again score all their runs in one inning, bunching five blows in the second off Jim Bagby. But, before Lefty Judd chalked up his fourth win of the year, he was hit for a homer by Roy Cullenbine in the ninth with the sacks empty.

While the Indians were being scalped, the New York Yankees, now in second place, were being pummeled to death by Hal Newhouser, of the Detroit Tigers, in a 3 to 2 decision. Newhouser pitched the Tigers to a win with at least one strike-out in every inning but the ninth. Prince Hal fanned 14 men, and yielded but six hits.

Two powerful batters in a hitting slump, Rudy York of the Tigers and Joe Gordon of the Yankees, snapped out of it in this game. Both hit fourth-inning homers, York bringing in four runs and Gordon sending Charley Keller, who had singled, across the plate.

Marshall Clouts
The Cincinnati Reds whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 7 to 0, with a 12-hit assault spread out over four straight innings. The Reds hit parade, which covered the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh frames, included four doubles and a home run. The four-bagger was hit by Max Marshall with none on in the seventh.

The St. Louis Cardinals, behind the five-hit tossing of Howard Pollet, defeated the Boston Braves, 3 to 2. The Braves jumped into a lead in the first inning on a two-run homer by Chet Ross, but Ken O'Dea scored one in the bottom half with a single after his club mates walked and stole a base. George Kurowski tied up the game with a seventh-inning homer, then Stan Musial came through with the winning run in the eighth after Connie Ryan dropped a throw on Ray Sanders' single.

The New York Giants drove the Chicago Cubs deeper into the National league cellar with a 3 to 2 whipping. The Giants pushed across a run in both the first and fourth innings; then sewed up the game when Johnny Wittig came home after Dick Bartell's single.

In Philadelphia a four run attack knocked out Johnny Humphries in the sixth inning and gave the Athletics a 7 to 5 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. In the first meeting of the two clubs so far this season.

Allen Pushes Umpire
"Dem bums" — officially the Brooklyn Dodgers—lived up to their reputation in a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates when Pitcher Johnny Allen, protesting a decision of the umpire's, became so excited he pushed Umpire George Barr around the field until half a dozen Brooklyn players stopped him. Allen, Melton, Fitzsimmons and Webber were ejected. The Pirates, incidentally, won 9 to 5.

HUTCHINGS PUTS INDIAN STREAK TO FIVE GAMES

COLUMBUS, May 28.—The Indianapolis Indians stretched their current victory streak to five today behind the four-hit pitching of Johnny Hutchings.

The American Association league leaders, behind Hutchings' hurling and batting, defeated Minneapolis 4 to 0. It was Hutchings' fourth victory of the season and his second shutout. Since joining the Indians last August, he hasn't lost a game. In the eight games, he has hurled in the league, he has allowed but 12 runs.

The game was a brilliant pitching duel between Hutchings and Southpaw Wilfred Lefebvre until the eighth when the Indians suddenly woke up and scored four times. The Indianapolis hurler batted in two of the counters.

The second-place Toledo Mud Hens cut the Indians' margin to two games by recording a double victory over Milwaukee. The wins stretched the Mud Hens' win streak to five straight. Fred Sanford, making his first start for Toledo since coming from the St. Louis Browns, coasted to a 9 to 2 victory in the opener. Bill Cox hurled the 6 to 4 win in the nightcap although he needed help from Harry Kimberlin in the ninth.

The Columbus Red Birds took over third place, a half-game behind Toledo, by defeating Kansas City 4 to 3. The Blues were leading 3 to 2 going into the ninth when two Red Birds, including Manager Nick Cullop, walked. With two out, Emil Verban grounded to the Blue first base man, but the latter momentarily fumbled the ball and then threw to Pitcher Hendrickson, covering the bag. When the latter dropped the ball both Columbus runners scored.

KAY AT LAUNCHING

If you're looking for Kay Kyser during the afternoon of Wednesday, June 2, you'll probably be told that he's out to launch. Kay and his troupe will be special guests of the California Shipbuilding Corporation while Kay Launches the shipyard's 200th war-time vessel, the Billy Mitchell. That night Kay will broadcast his "College of Musical Knowledge," over NBC at 9 p. m., from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles before 6,000 of the yard's workers.

JOE E. HOWARD SINGS

Joe E. Howard, singing emcee of "Gay Nineties Revue," revives his most famous composition, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," on the Monday, May 31, broadcast over station WBNB at 7:30 p. m. Joe also sings "I Don't Want to be an Umpire," Balladeer Lillian Leonard chants "Hold Me Just a Little Closer," Danny Donovan sings "I Have But Fifty Cents," Jenny Lynn sings music from "Sari," and the mixed octette offers "Come Along, My Mandy." In addition to a medley of old favorites in which all the stars take part, the show closes with "America" by the whole cast.

CAMPS CREDITED

Dale Evans, the eye-fel and earful of singing charm on the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy radio show, credits Army camp experience as the springboard for her success in bigtime radio. Dale had sung with orchestras, and on radio, for years, then covered the Army camps for five months before auditioning for Edgar Bergen's show. She frankly admits that without this camp show "trouper training" she wouldn't have had the necessary "polish" to hold down the singing spot on one of the nation's biggest and most popular radio shows.

SONG BY NOBLE

Ray Noble, music maestro of the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy Sunday airshow, is excited over the announcement that Warner Brothers Hollywood studio will soon produce a picture named for Ray's own tune, "The Very Thought of You." Ray wrote the song in 1934, and it is still a top pop tune. The picture will spot the song in the same manner that

"As Time Goes By" was spotlighted so successfully in "Casablanca" — so Ray is expecting a windfall of royalties on the tune's comeback.

CANTOR TO BE GUEST

When Dinah Shore opens her new Summer program with Paul Whiteman's orchestra over NBC Sunday, June 6, at 7 p. m., as a replacement for vacationing Charlie McCarthy she'll feel right at home because of the first guest star. He is none other than Eddie Cantor, who is Dinah's radio boss on NBC Wednesday nights.

PAULETTE GODDARD

Glamorous Paulette Goddard will star in "Tom, Dick and Harry" on Charles Martin's Playhouse over CBS on Friday night. She is the sixth glamour star in six weeks to be headlined on the Playhouse, and Martin explains it this way: "In radio's earlier days a producer's motto was: 'Pick your actress by the way she reads her lines, not by the way she shows them." That idea has been scrapped because Crossley and Hooper reports clearly indicate that listeners want to hear film beauties on the air—not just excellent actresses whom they cannot visualize mentally."

FRANKLIN P. ADAMS

Franklin P. Adams, well-known journalist, author, and scholar with "Information Please" will be Sammy Kaye's guest for the program heard on Wednesday, June 2, at 7 p. m. over the Columbia network. The show, now on tour, will be presented from "F.P.A.'s" home town, Chicago, Ill.

In keeping with the spirit of June, the month of brides and graduations, "F.P.A." has chosen the latter for a subject of discussion. According to Sammy, Adams has some very original ideas on what a graduation speech should include.

Two District Casualties Reported in Battle for Tunisia

PETER GERLACH, FORMER COUNTY RESIDENT, DIES

George Swackhammer Among Wounded Reported By War Bureau

WITH GENERAL PATTON

Both Men Fall In Drive Of American Forces Toward Tunis

First two Pickaway county district casualties reported in the great American - British - French drive to force the Germans and Italians out of Tunisia were reported Friday, one of the casualties being a fatality and the other a report of a youth being seriously wounded.

Sergeant Peter Robert Gerlach, 29, who was reared on the McKenzie farm in Pickaway township, was killed April 23, a telegram received Thursday by Miss Mary McKenzie, Pickaway township, disclosed.

The telegram was sent by the War department to Miss McKenzie, who was listed by the youth as the person to notify in case of emergency.

Lived On Farm

Gerlach came to Pickaway county at the age of 17 and made his home with the McKenzie family for six years, leaving in 1937. During those six years he worked on the McKenzie farm and made many friends in the Pickaway township community.

In 1937 Gerlach left Pickaway township and later entered service from New York.

Miss McKenzie said that the youth was "like a brother". He had no close relatives.

The sergeant's fatal injury was suffered at a time when American troops under General Patton were driving toward Tunis.

Swackhammer Wounded

Second casualty coming out of the victorious thrust was that of Private George L. Swackhammer, 26, son of Mrs. Maude Swackhammer, who lives seven miles north of Laurelville in Hocking county.

Mrs. Swackhammer's telegram from the War department said that her son had been seriously wounded in action May 2. At that time the allies were breaking through the mountain defenses of the axis in the Medjez-el-Bab area of northern Tunisia.

Mrs. Swackhammer's telegram said that she would be notified every 15 days concerning her son's condition.

The youth whose father has been dead for some years entered service October 22, 1941, with a Hocking county contingent of draftees.

LOCAL PUPILS SCORE HIGH IN STATE TESTS

Two District Casualties Reported in Battle for Tunisia

PETER GERLACH, FORMER COUNTY RESIDENT, DIES

George Swackhammer Among Wounded Reported By War Bureau

WITH GENERAL PATTON

Both Men Fall In Drive Of American Forces Toward Tunis

First two Pickaway county district casualties reported in the great American - British - French drive to force the Germans and Italians out of Tunisia were reported Friday, one of the casualties being a fatality and the other a report of a youth being seriously wounded.

Sergeant Peter Robert Gerlach, 29, who was reared on the McKenzie farm in Pickaway township, was killed April 23, a telegram received Thursday by Miss Mary McKenzie, Pickaway township, disclosed.

The telegram was sent by the War department to Miss McKenzie, who was listed by the youth as the person to notify in case of emergency.

Lived On Farm

Gerlach came to Pickaway county at the age of 17 and made his home with the McKenzie family for six years, leaving in 1937. During those six years he worked on the McKenzie farm and made many friends in the Pickaway township community.

In 1937 Gerlach left Pickaway township and later entered service from New York.

Miss McKenzie said that the youth was "like a brother". He had no close relatives.

The sergeant's fatal injury was suffered at a time when American troops under General Patton were driving toward Tunis.

Swackhammer Wounded

Second casualty coming out of the victorious thrust was that of Private George L. Swackhammer, 26, son of Mrs. Maude Swackhammer, who lives seven miles north of Laurelville in Hocking county.

Mrs. Swackhammer's telegram said that her son had been seriously wounded in action May 2. At that time the allies were breaking through the mountain defenses of the axis in the Medjez-el-Bab area of northern Tunisia.

Mrs. Swackhammer's telegram said that she would be notified every 15 days concerning her son's condition.

The youth whose father has been dead for some years entered service October 22, 1941, with a Hocking county contingent of draftees.
